In keeping with our theme of, "Then and Now", we chose for a title page the one that began it all, page 1, volume 1, the very first Capitoline.

IN THE BEGINNING, Springfield High School was void, without form. The school grounds were originally a cemetery, which was moved because of an ordinance prohibiting burial within the city limits. After moving the cemetery, excavation began for the "new" Springfield High School. The present building is actually the second S.H.S. The original was referred to as "Old Central" after completion of the new school.

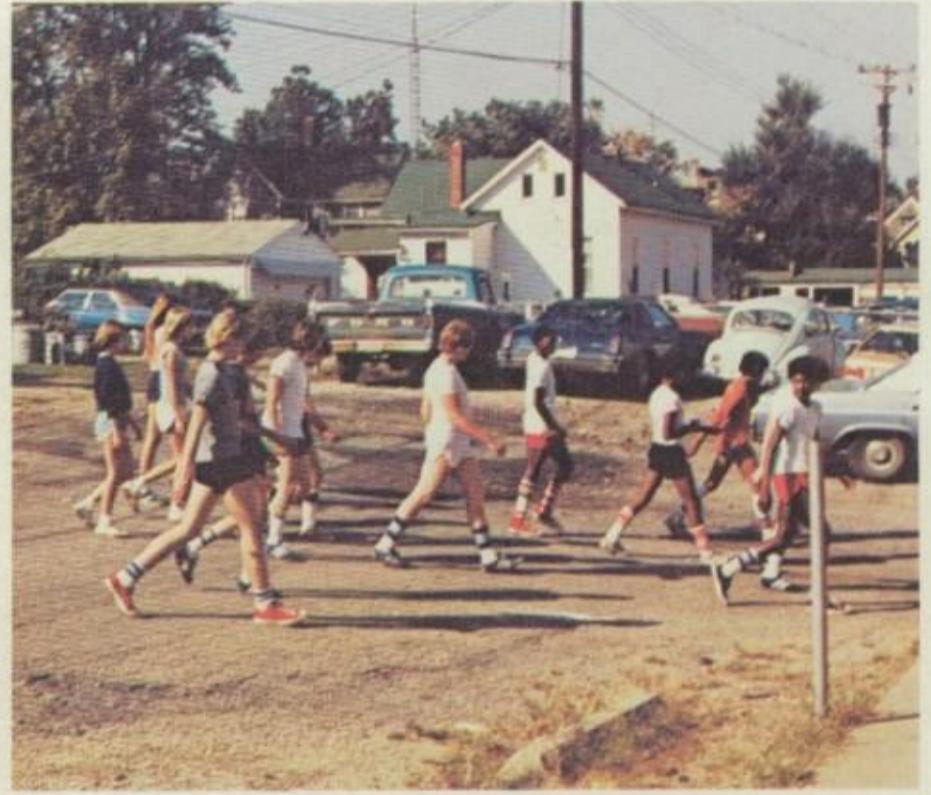

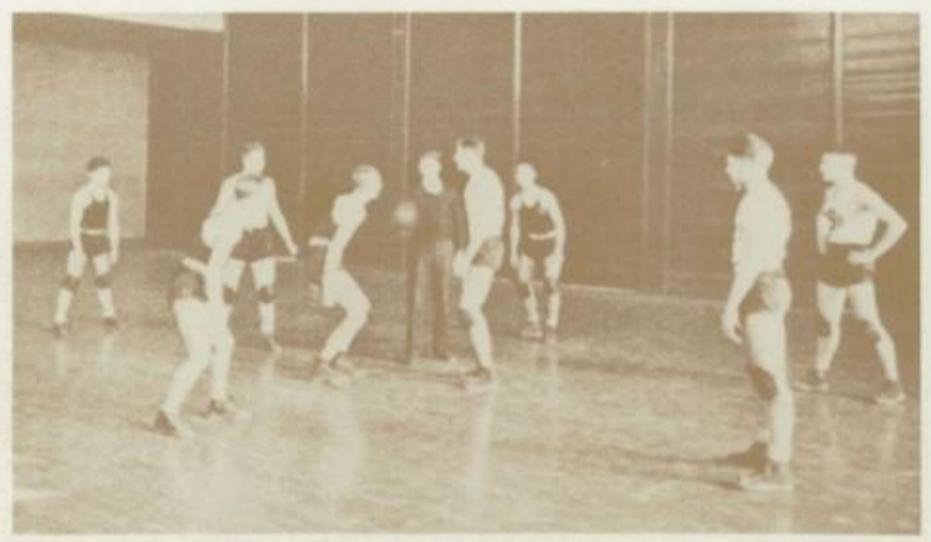

During the 1920's and 30's the front lawn featured neatly trimmed hedges and was shaded by several towering elms. The elms were lost to an epidemic of Dutch Elm Disease, while the hedges were lost to "progress."

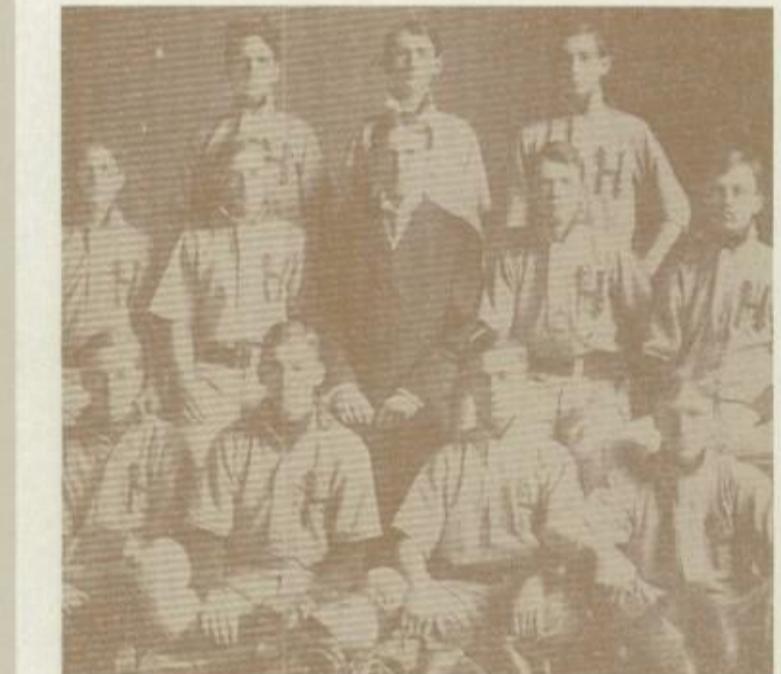

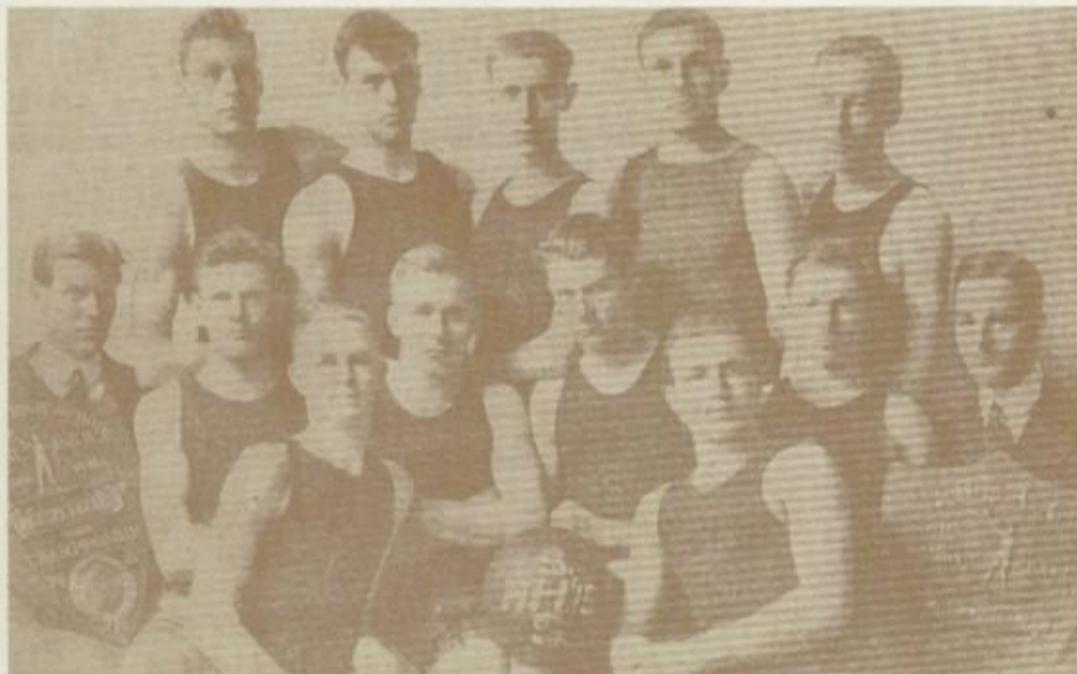

Springfield High School has always been one to have the latest in equipment and contemporary classes. Above, the Radio and Research Club of Springfield, 1922, is pictured next to the highly advanced Chemistry Lab of 1898. Needless to say, S.H.S. was proud of the musical talents of the 1908 Orchestra.

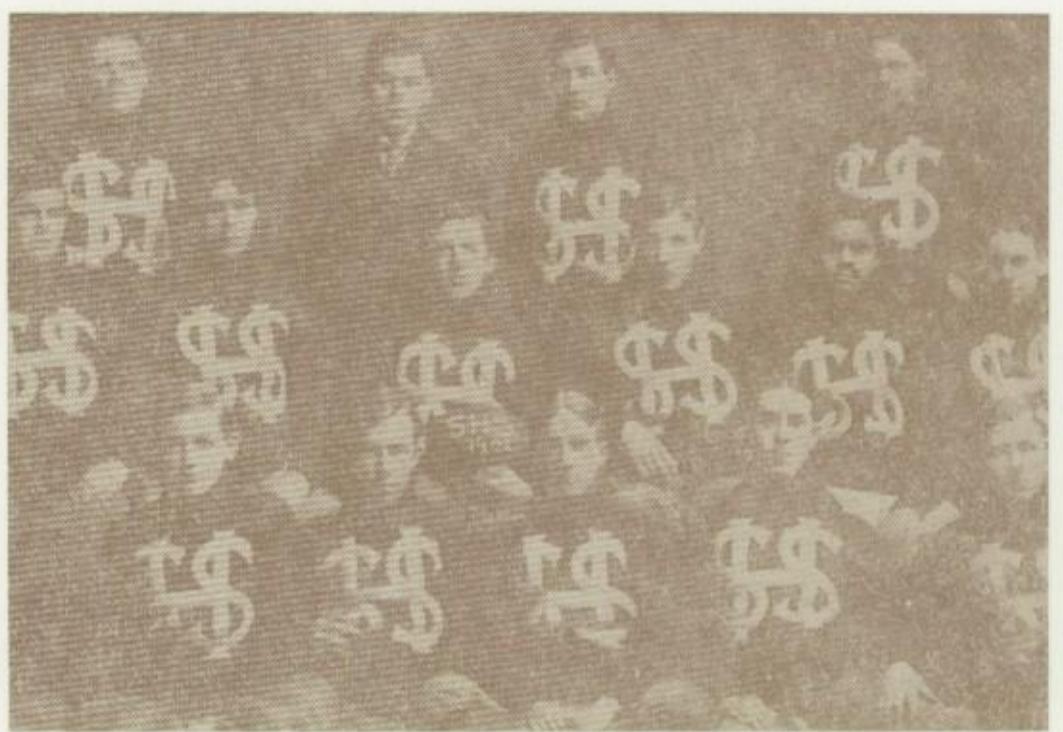

The equipment used by students in dealing with basic problems changes with the advancement of technology. In some departments, such as Art, materials and equipment remain the same.

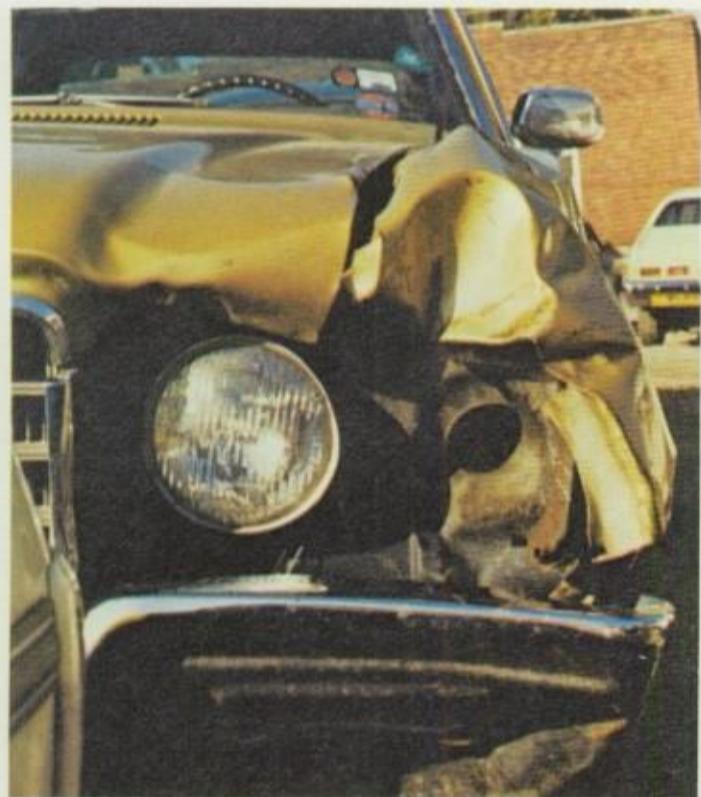

To quote the caption that was with one of the above pictures, "What is more beneficial to a student than a healthy body?" . . . well, anyway, physical education has changed since 1931.

The P.E. Classes were the developing ground for the Varsity teams. The top picture shows the agile Track Team of 1897, which includes Poet Vachel Lindsay, (far right), who competed in the mile-walk. Below the Track Team is the 1915 Basketball Team, that came back from the State Tournament with Second Place, losing to Freeport 27-11. The third group pictured is the 1905 Baseball team.

Compare the "Ferocious" Football Teams of 1899 and 1902 with the representative "animals" of today. Right after the picture was taken, Messrs. Torricelli, Countryman, Bybee, and LeMasters devoured an entire Crown Transit Bus that contained the S.H.S. Soccer Team.

The student parking problem of today is actually a long standing situation, as the photo from the 1925 Capitoline will attest. The "crunch" in student parking continues.

Students from Springfield High School have always been the better students in the city: For a while they were the only high school students in the city. The top left picture is the graduating class of 1867. Below that is the class of 1886.

The school has always had basic types of students: including athletes, cheerleaders, and student council members.

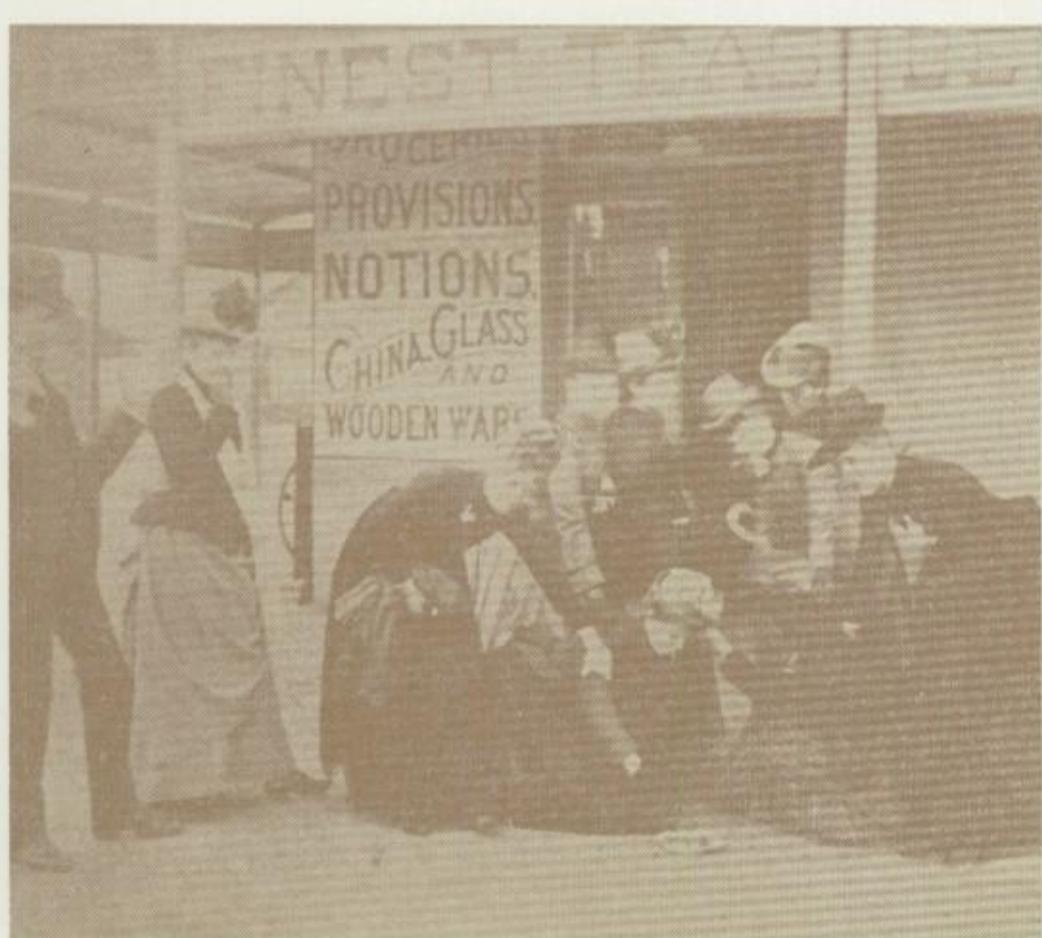

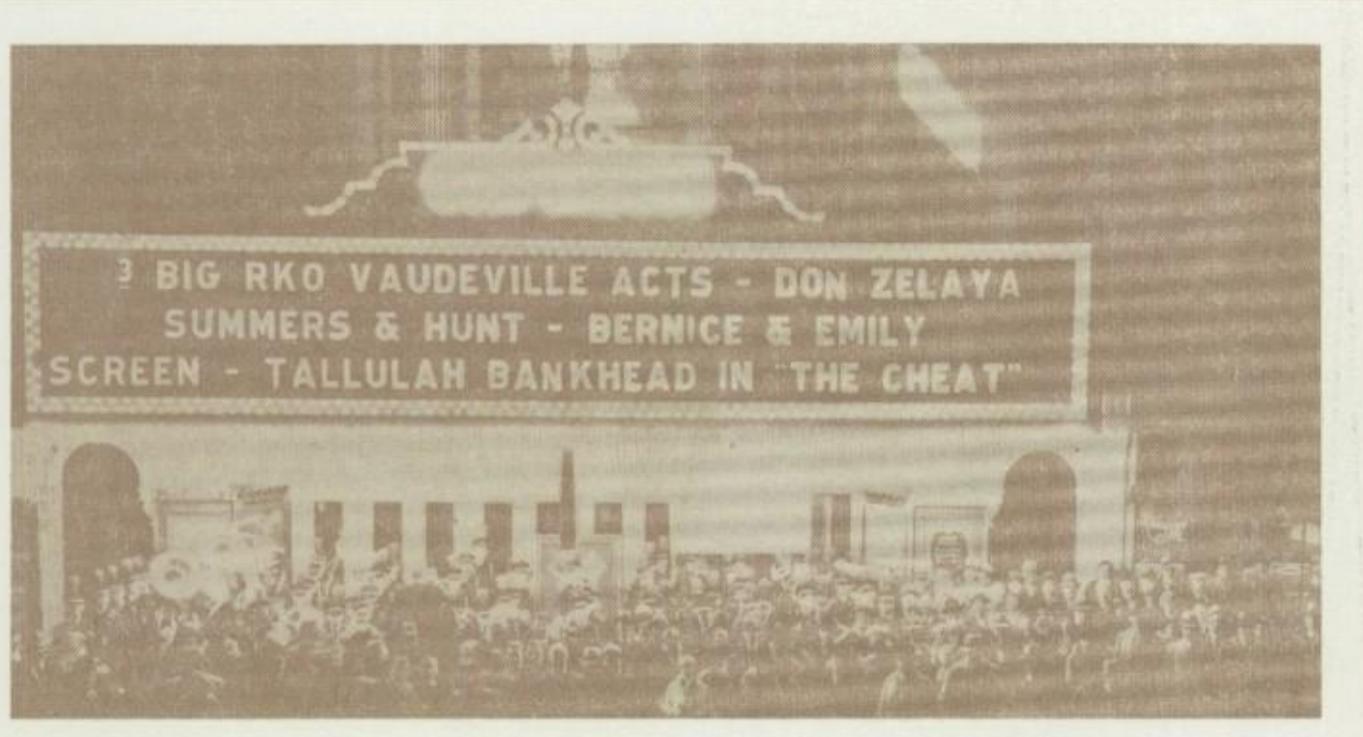

To keep the students company at school, there have always been highly qualified faculty members. The group pictured above is the 1899-1900 staff. The quality of teachers carries through today . . . with a couple exceptions.

High School Cafeteria

One of the most important elements of school should not go unproclaimed. It has been maligned and criticized by many but praised by few. The self-less dedication of the cooks, as they daily labor to prepare food for a group of thankless patrons, should be recognized. The cafeteria is not the only source of food however. The other pictures on the page illustrate how the students survive between classes.

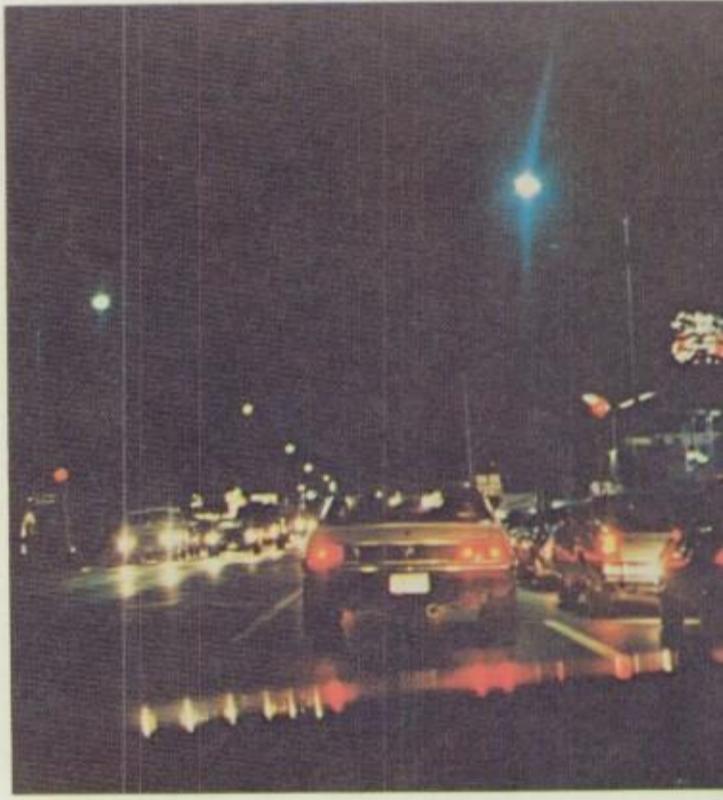

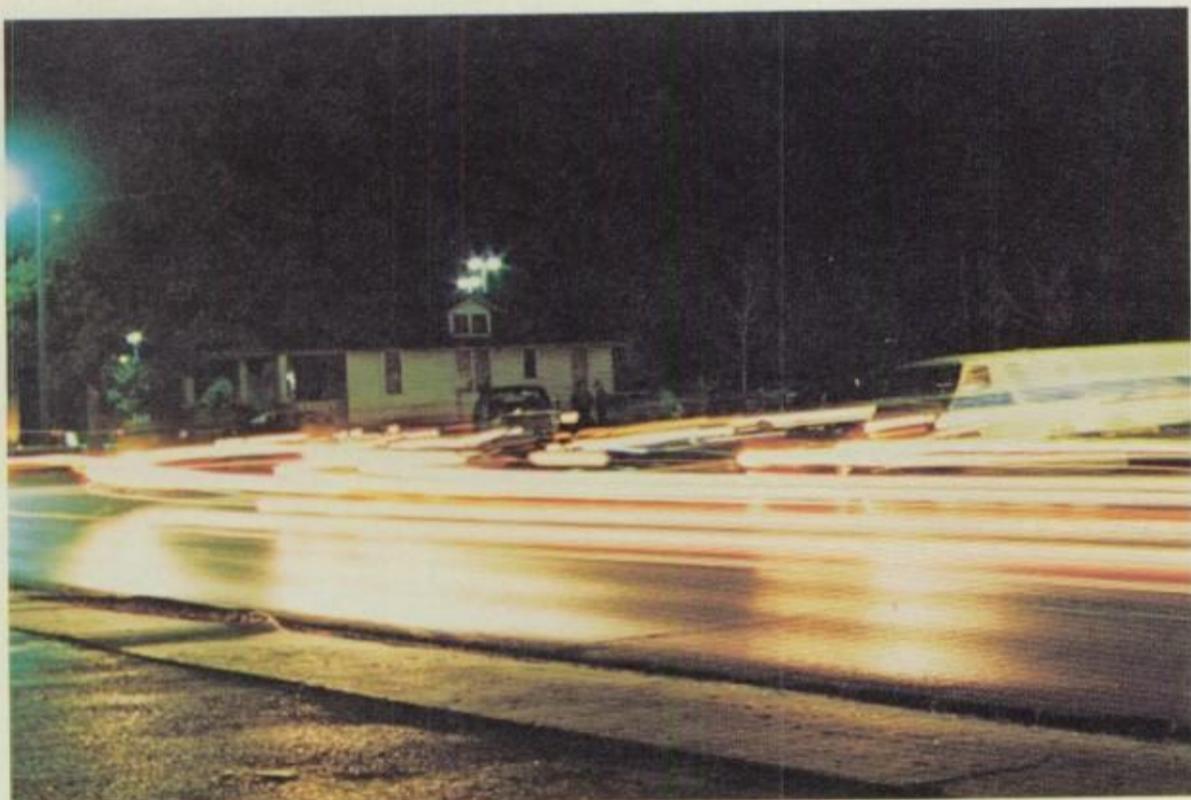

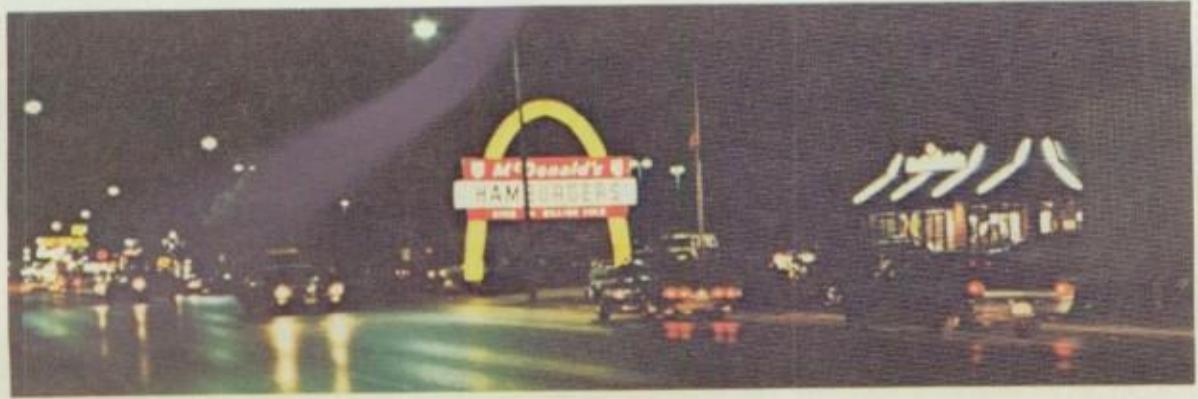

Recreation for high school students has taken many forms over the years. In the 1930's, the Orpheum Theatre was a popular spot for an evening on the town. The SHS Band is pictured in front of the one-time Springfield landmark. High School picnics were once a popular pastime enjoyed by couples like those shown boating on Clear Lake. The third photo shows a group of SHS girls engaged in "undignified conduct". In 1888 it was considered unlady-like to fight over a sack of spilled peanuts.

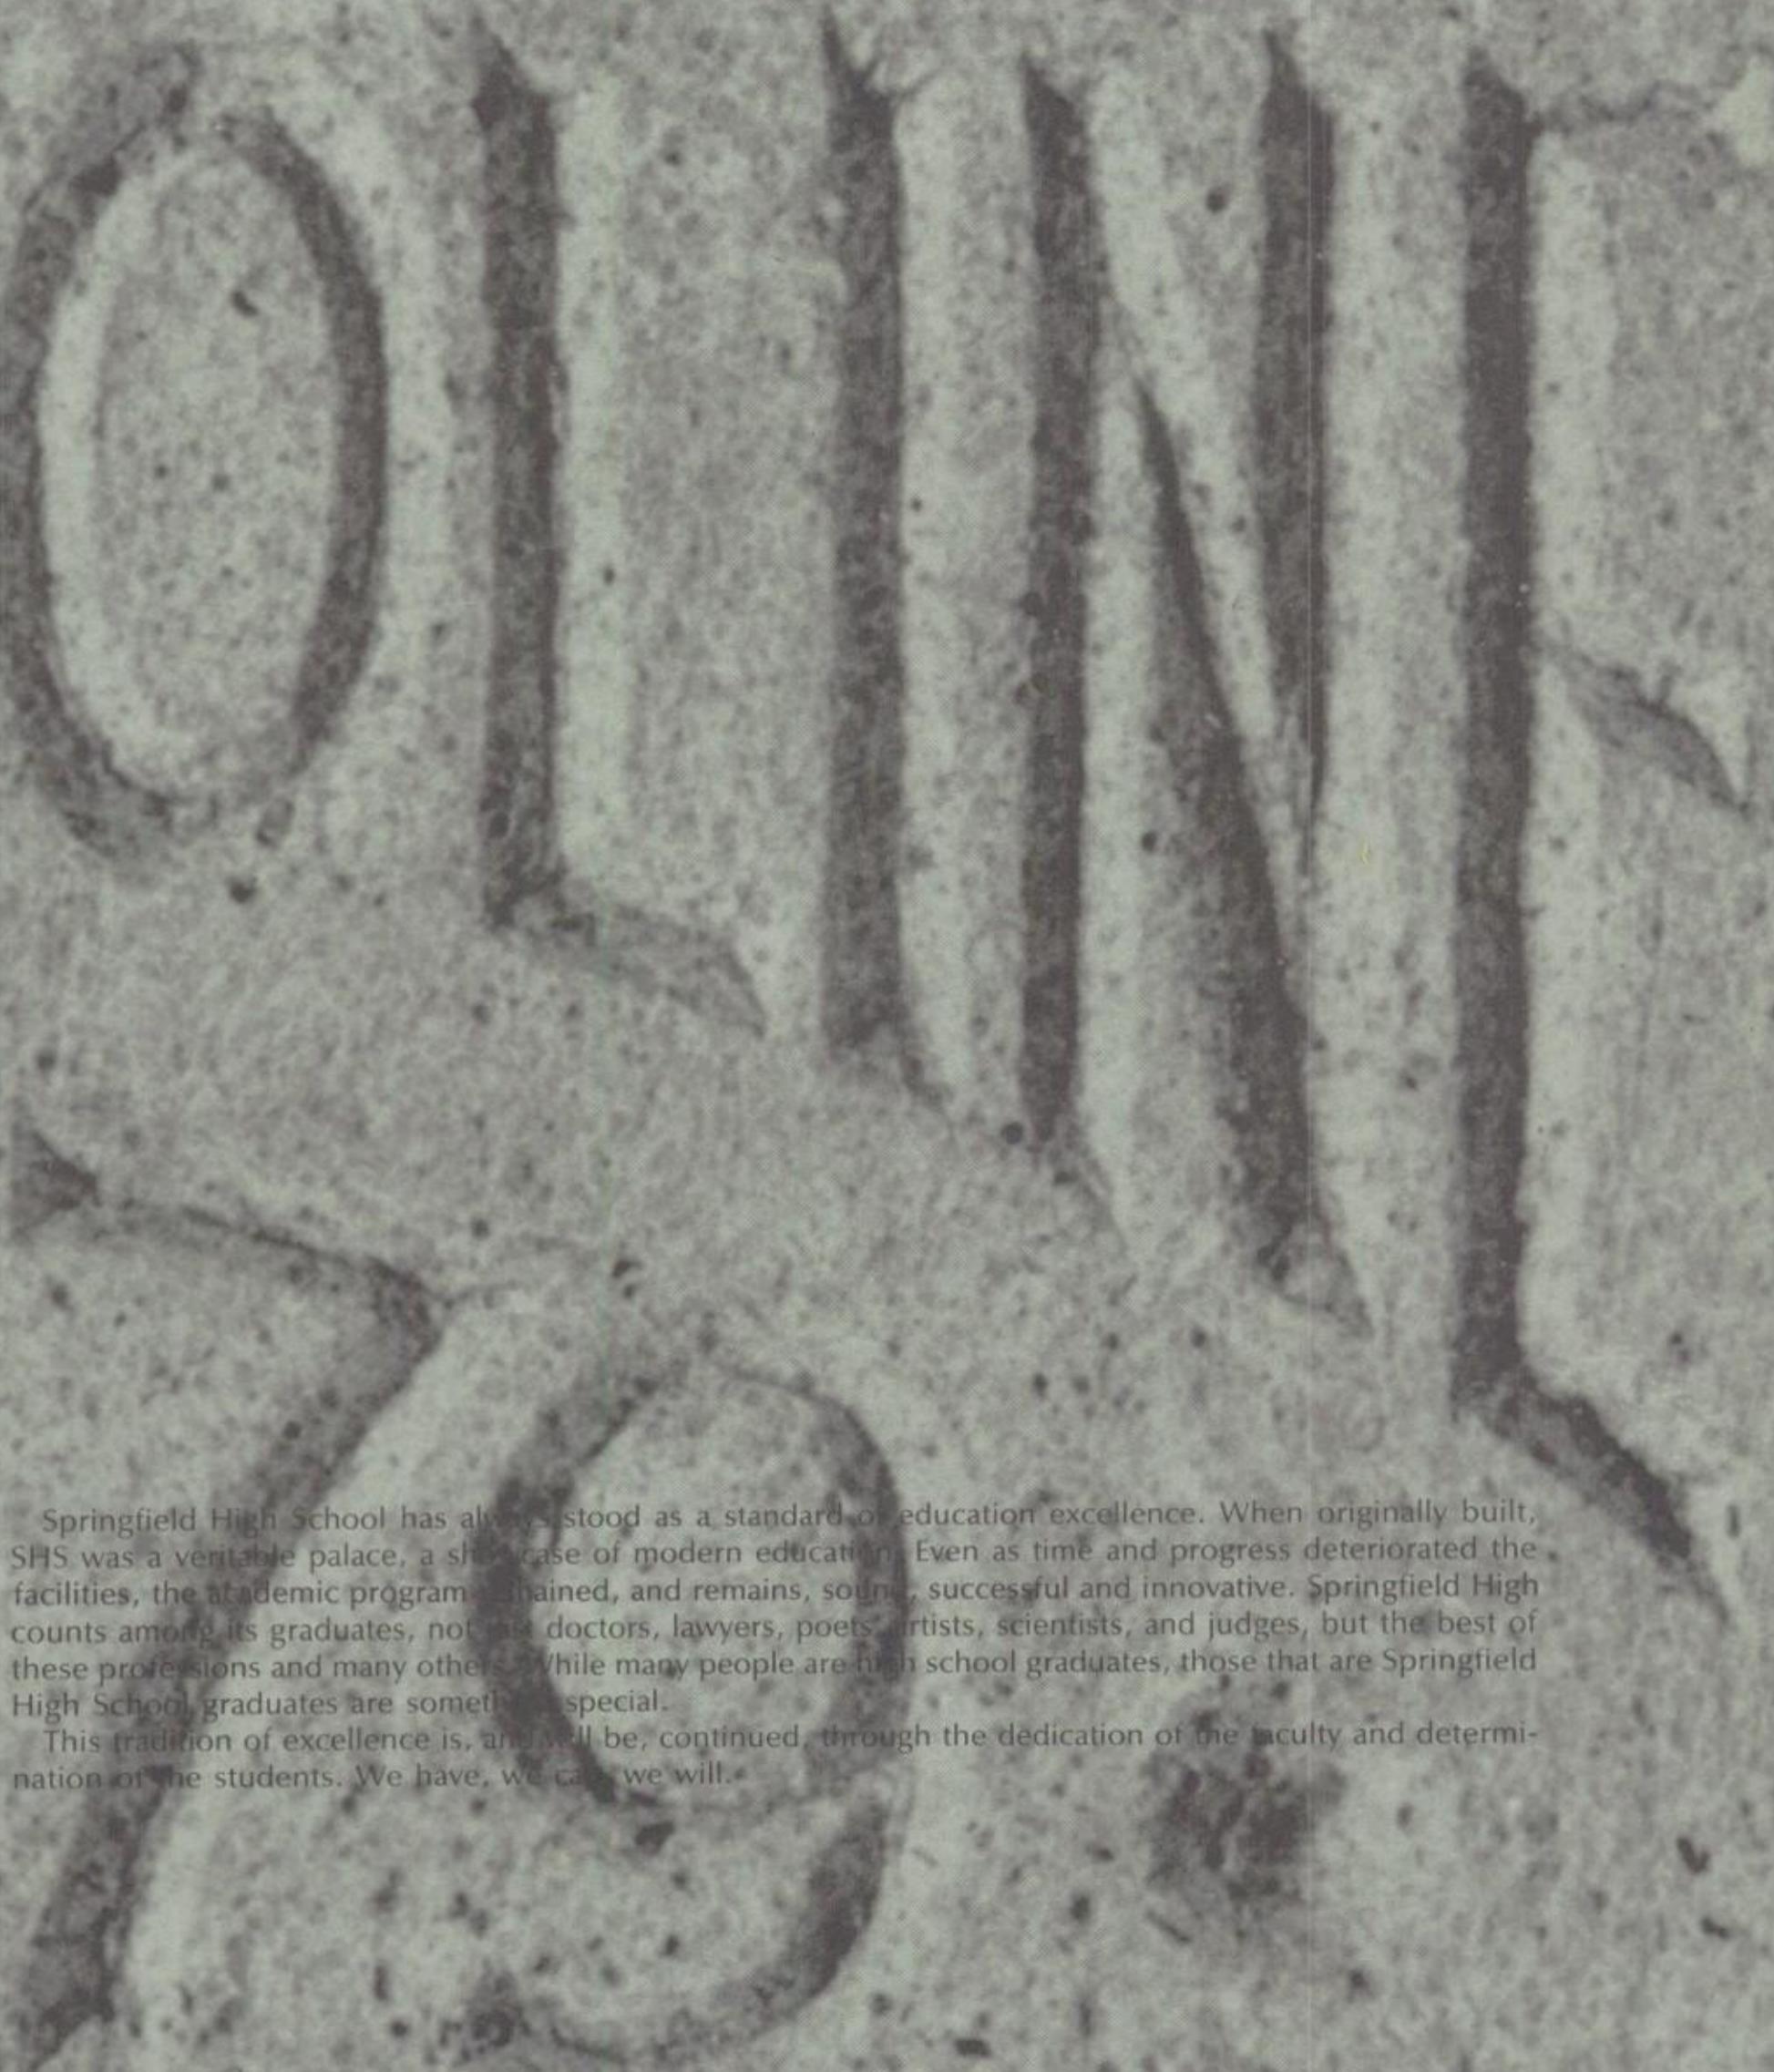

When the 1974 Capitoline Staff chose the Lincoln Theatre for the cover of the yearbook, they had no way of knowing that it would soon be history. Just as the Orpheum Theatre, pictured earlier, became the victim of progress, so did the Lincoln. In place of these once splendid castles of dreams, there now exist a motorbank and a parking lot.

Theatres may come, and theatres may go, theatres may even close down you know, but some will be there, through thick and thin, driving-out and driving-in.

Just as automobiles helped to kill theatres, they helped to create a new national pastime. CRUISIN'. Many a joyous and freedom-filled hour has been passed snuggled smugly in a bucket seat, traversing the boulevards, seeing and being seen. Cool cars, ugly cars, Daddy's car, motor-heads, drop-outs, jocks, everybody does it on the strip.

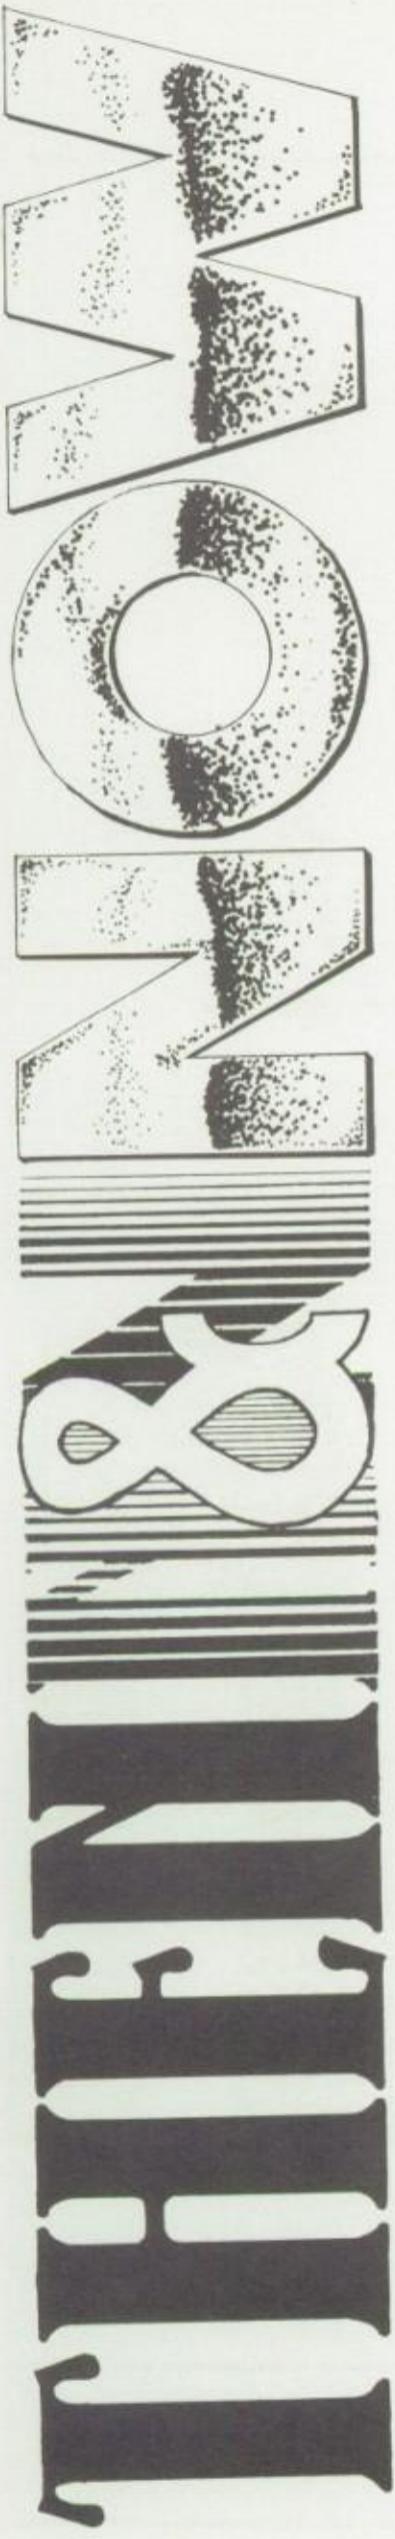

Springfield High School has always stood as a standard of education excellence. When originally built, SHS was a veritable palace, a showcase of modern education. Even as time and progress deteriorated the facilities, the academic program remained, and remains, sound, successful and innovative. Springfield High counts among its graduates, not just doctors, lawyers, poets, artists, scientists, and judges, but the best of these professions and many others. While many people are high school graduates, those that are Springfield High School graduates are something special.

This tradition of excellence is, and will be, continued, through the dedication of the faculty and determination of the students. We have, we can, we will.

What is . . .

What is a Senior? God, according to the senior. A Senior is the final result of a bumbling 12 to 13, sometimes 14 and 15, year system that is still not sure of its purpose. Seniors are very popular with mailmen since every college in the U.S. sends them brochures, catalogues or other material that makes the campus look like something out of a Disney movie. Seniors are very smart and perceptive. By this time of their life, they can fill in the dots on the computer scored tests without reading the instructions, which is alot more than some counselors can do. Seniors are financial wizards. They go broke very easily from class rings, graduation announcements, cap and gown rental, Prom tickets, speeding tickets, and lab breakabe slips. Seniors often plan to take long trips but don't intend to travel many miles. The life of a Senior is one big party. Seniors quote Steve Martin. Seniors have had Senior Health and they know it all. Senior boys have ambitions for an evening with the entire Pom Pon squad. Seniors have fast cars, fast women, fast action and slow minds. They are sharp wits who lie about their age to get into "Deep Throat". Seniors talk with God and walk on water.

What is a Junior? The average McDonald's worker, inordinately proud of their new (old) car with only minor dents and missing quarterpanels. Juniors haven't had Senior Health yet and are slightly confused. However, they believe practice makes perfect. Juniors feel disco is the greatest possible fulfillment . . . well, second greatest. Junior boys have ambitions of getting the family car for a date on Saturday night. Juniors are quick wits who lie about their age to see "Saturday Night Fever". Juniors talk with angels and swim in water.

What is a Sophomore? Sitting around, waiting for their voices to change, mentally running on empty, listening to Kiss and watching reruns of Gilligan's Island, Sophomores dream about the day they get to be grown-ups. Sophomores have had Sophomore Health, are still confused and have a morbid fear of storks. Sophomores feel Driver's Ed tests are mentally taxing. Sophomores quote Mork from Ork. Sophomore boys have ambitions of having fun in UCP next year. Sophomores can't spell "Sophomore". Sophomores are half-wits who lie about their age to see "Herbie Rides Again" and then they cry during the movie. Sophomores talk with Mr. Hott and drink water.

An extra note about Sophomores. Regardless of what is said above, Sophomores write the best pep assembly skits. If you are a Sophomore and think what was said above was unfair and you say Juniors and Seniors were Sophomores once too, (though you'll never get one to admit it) we offer this bit of advice: TAKE IT OUT ON THE CLASS OF '82!

Back row, left to right: Mark Brodland, Dan Coffey, Lucky Luckett, Scott Gardner, Brad Becker, Mike Clark, Jeff Brooks, Cyrus Fakroddin, Jay Sowinski, Bob Bridges, Rick Glisson, Jim Torricelli. Third row: Bruce Countryman, Steve Halberson, Brian Kenny, Jeff Saunders, Chris Bybee, Dave Fisherkeller, Brian Connery, Lynn Crossin, Tom Le Masters, Rick Crossin, Greg Tucker, Joe Bull. Second row: Dan McCurdy, Lee Betsill, John McCurdy, Rob Burris, Bill Allen, Paul Brodland, Scott Fagetti, Barry Slifer, Jim Massa, Bill Sturm, Mike McCormick, Mike Hollingshead. Front row: Matt Pinkerton, Rick Garfat, John Kwedar, Stu Blake, Brad Hudson, Joe Bartolomucci, John Alford, John Glisson, Ken Watters, Bill Golden, Matt Espe.

After finishing the season with a 2-6-1 record, Coach John Sowinski said the '78 Senator Football Team gave an excellent account of themselves, with the exception of the Urbana game. Expectations are high for the '79 squad with 24 lettermen returning, including 8 offensive and 6 defensive starters.

Cross Country

Batman and Robin, plus one.

This year's edition of cross country was very successful. The team led by seniors Bob Bertram and Captain John Haworth, finished 5th in the Jacksonville District and advanced to the sectional. Bertram, a 1st team all city selection, won the Southeast Invitational, was 3rd in the city meet, 4th in the district, and 17th at Peoria. Haworth was the inspirational leader of the team and a 2nd team all city selection.

The future of cross country at SHS will depend on our ability to replace seniors Bertram, Haworth, Hajek, and junior Dave Simmons, who moved. With four returning lettermen, Jeff Condra, Greg Love, Mike Parbs and Joe Oder, there is a good nucleus for next year.

Girls Tennis

The 1978-1979 SHS girls tennis team ended their season with 8 wins and 3 losses. The girls captured a second place title in the Big 12 tournament which consisted of 8 teams. That 2nd place finish was the best the Lady Senators have accomplished in that particular tournament. The doubles team of Stacey Becker and Pam Kane placed 4th in the District meet which qualified them to the Illinois High School Association Girls State Tennis Tournament. The duo was defeated in the first round of play. Singles player Kim Ruuttila placed 2nd in the district qualifier. At the State tournament, Kim won 5 rounds which placed her 7th in the State tournament.

Without the enthusiasm in the practices and the meets by all of the girls, the team this year could not have been a success. Every girl was a great part of the team.

The Senator Golf Team had a record of 6 wins and 6 losses in regular season play. The Golfinig Senators finished 2nd in the City tournament, 4th in the Big-12 tournament, 4th of 24 teams in the Southeast invitational, 5th of 22 teams in the Quincy invitational. The golf team has the philosophy of allowing every member of the team to compete in at least one event during the season.

Scorers/Statisticians: Maria Garhardt, Missy Taylor, Jan Arvin, Anita Smith, Karen Tharp.

The 1978 Volleyball Team had a successful year, with the Varsity finishing out the season with an 11-9 record, and the Junior Varsity finishing 6-10. The team placed second in the City Tournament, and Senior Jill Foster was voted by city coaches to be on the All-City Squad.

Awards, voted by members of the team, include: Cheri Calahan—Most Valuable Player, Rita Wabel—Most Improved Player, and Julie Claggett—Good Sportsmanship.

The co-captains for the Varsity squad were Cheri Calahan and Debbie Clause and co-captains for the JV were Debby Gall and Shelly Gall.

Alternate Occupations

With many students deciding to change their plans from becoming teachers and turning to more porfitable and enjoyable professions, such as loan sharks and corporate maintenance engineers, we assigned a member of our staff to investigate what occupations some of our faculty and staff members might be suited. Here are the results:

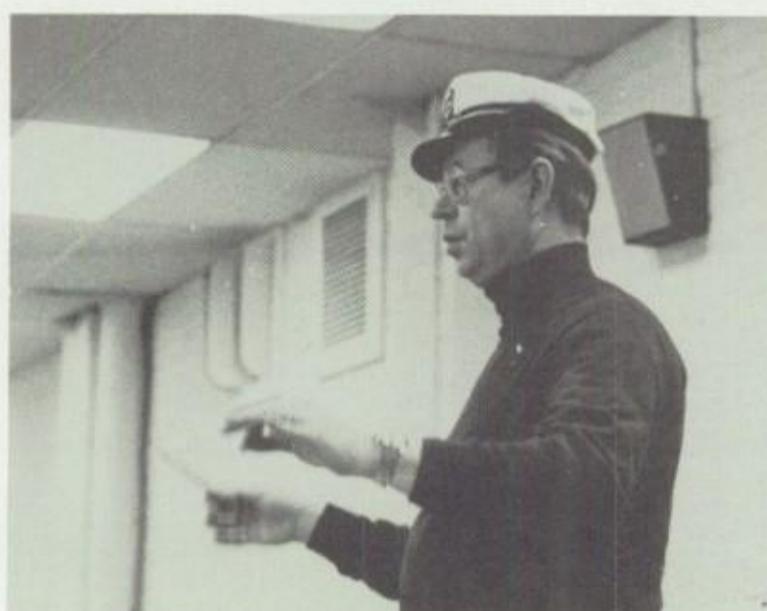

- Mr. Glintborg, a movie producer
- Mr. Hill, a stand-up comic
- Mr. Rockford, a fashion designer
- Mr. Evans, a minister
- Mrs. Gloseki, a saleslady at Cartiers
- Mr. Abbott, a kamakazi pilot with 20 successful missions
- Mr. Wallis, a mischievous imp
- Mrs. Chilovich, lead rock singer for E.M. and the Rolling Stones
- Mr. Gurski, a regular on "Happy Days"
- Mr. Hott, someone unexciteable
- Mr. Turner, someone exciteable
- Mr. Holinga, a semi-irate scientist
- Mrs. Neece, a bartender
- Mr. Milnes, Pope Bob the first
- Mr. Jensen, a Kelly Girl
- Mrs. Martinie, a private investigator
- Mrs. Liebman, Jack LaLane's exercise instructor
- Mr. Zeller, a prosecuting attorney
- Mr. Kendall, children's television show host

Faculty & Staff

My years as principal of Springfield High School were perhaps the most rewarding of my career in education. I will always cherish the friendships formed, the memories of those four years, and take pride in having been a S.H.S. Senator from 1974-1978.

Springfield High School has been blessed with excellent students, staff and community support. It is a pleasant, if somewhat rare, experience in secondary education today to work, teach, and study in an environment where discipline exists, where students are motivated, where parents show interest and cooperation and where teachers can devote their energies to the teaching-learning process.

Springfield High School has developed, over the past six decades, a tradition of excellence in this community. My greatest hope for the school and my successor is that S.H.S. continue to offer the challenges and rewards associated with quality education and continue to produce intelligent and compassionate people who can provide responsible leadership and citizenship in a troubled world.

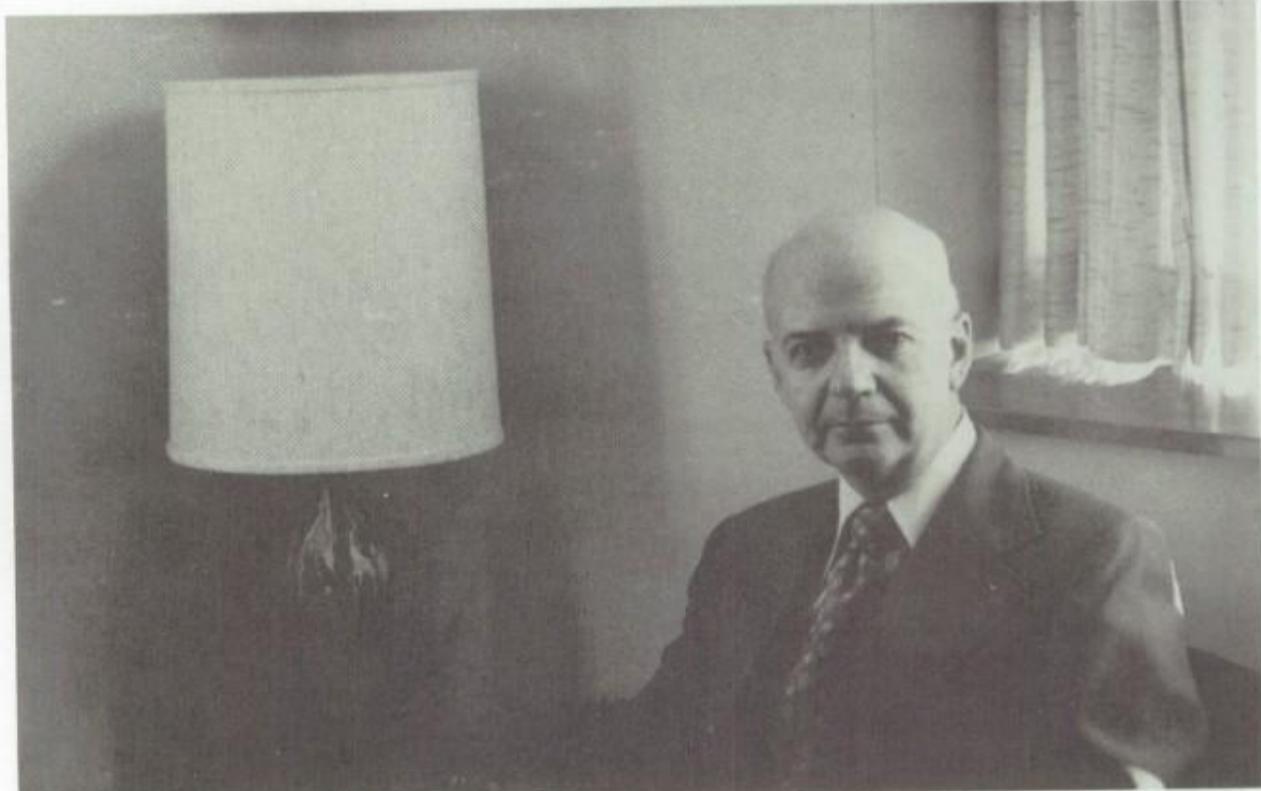

My best wishes for the future are extended to the students and staff of Springfield High School.

Dr. James K. Nighswander
Principal, 1974-1978
Director of Instruction, District 186

My eight month tenure as Springfield High School's principal has been both frustrating and rewarding. Frustrating—because I quickly ran out of answers to many questions such as why the radiators bang, why the student and faculty parking lots are not black topped and why the library can't have new furniture. Rewarding—because it remains personally satisfying to be part of a school in which excellence is part of a long tradition and where teachers continue to place a high priority on quality. I am grateful to have served.

Musically talented Springfield High School students, both instrumental and vocal, have had a unique experience this year as members of Music Performance Class. Introduced into the 1978-1979 curriculum as a pilot offering, the class provides individual and specialized instruction in talent and skill development of music performance regardless of the student's chosen style or medium. Selected by audition, this year's students originated and developed both instrumental and vocal solos, duos, trios, and small ensemble presentations of jazz, rock, pop, bluegrass, folk, classical, Gay 90's, and musical theatre styles for public community performance.

The Schoolhouse On The Hill

(Re-printed by popular demand from the 1978 Capotine)

In a book of rusted memories there's an image lingering still:
how we trudged up the steps to the schoolhouse on the hill.

How it sat in squalid splendor and we yet can feel the thrill, watching Pom Pon Girls' derrieres
at the schoolhouse on the hill.

Ogg and Humphrey; Smith and Otwell, their voices echo still,
Funny! They never set foot in the schoolhouse on the hill.

Teachers, Lawyers, Doctors, Statesmen, their numbers taught here are nil
We only get auto mechanics, from the schoolhouse on the hill.

Lunches were delicious!
We always ate our fill.
But we all ate at McDonald's not the normal Cafeteria swill.

And those lovely school assemblies.
On the chorus sang so shrill.
The comedies were never funny
at the schoolhouse on the hill.

Er'er we close this book of memories
these last words from this ball point quill:
We make jokes and laugh,
but really enjoyed,
the schoolhouse on the hill.

Making the Yearbook

When sitting around at parties and the conversation starts to drag, people will ask me "What goes into the making of a yearbook?" The answer to this is as exciting as discussing a periodic chart or the icebreaker comments we learn in Senior Health.

The first objective is to pick a theme. You gather together some creative minds and then some others, to brainstorm for ideas. Many imaginative suggestions come out of these sessions. "Disco Yearbook", "Kermit the Frog at SHS", "Bicentennial plus Four", "Seven and nine is more than just a drink", and "Maybe we're not more than machines".

After the theme is picked and all the empties are picked up, the next problem is figuring out how to apply the theme to the entire book. The aim is to make the yearbook original, which when you think about it, that's an ambiguous statement in itself. There are three basic places to apply the theme; the cover, the color section and the division pages. Otherwise, it's the same old thing, year after year.

To start, you need pictures to work with. First, buy 5 rolls of film, shoot the film, then lose it. Buy 5 more rolls of film, shoot the film, then let the processor lose it. The third time's a charm, so buy 5 more rolls of film, don't shoot it and nobody loses it. I'll admit it will take some imagination to work with these pictures, but it's a start. You try to organize these pictures on a dummy sheet, which is no reflection on the person trying to do it. After the planning is done, it is transferred to a triplicate and put in a big white envelope.

The next step is "copy". This means written material, not the process commonly used during tests. In the case of sports pages, you go to the coach and ask him or her to write something for you. Two days later you go back and ask again. This merry process can go on for weeks. Finally you get it on the back of an athletic program or some other strange form of stationary. From this, you decipher the crayon marks, correct the spelling and re-type it onto a "copy sheet". This event took place at least eighty times for this book.

I'm not saying that everyone indulges in yearbook work. On the contrary, the general staff realizes that the one or two people doing the work enjoy it so much that they let them do it all.

Of course the main idea is to not do the work over a period of time. The real fun comes when you wait until two or three days before a deadline, then do the work. The final deadline is the best. At this time, half of the book is done in four days. With all the confusion and mass hysteria it's easy to slip things by the proofreader, (advisor). How naively he signs the pages, thinking everything is all right.

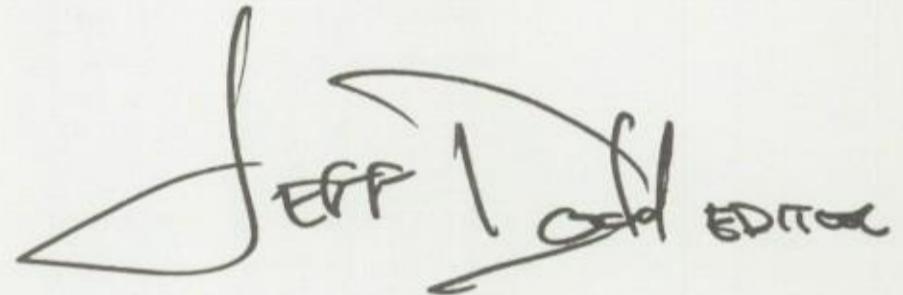

Things aren't fun and games for the entire year however. About once a month, a sinister-looking man with an equally sinister-looking briefcase, comes knocking at the door. He is called the sales representative. His job is to threaten you to get work done. He knows that you haven't mailed 78 pages that are due, and doesn't believe that you are only waiting to scrounge up the money for postage. If you disagree with him, he gets out his black book. He knows how many pages are done. He's like Santa Claus, he knows if you've been sleeping, he knows when you're awake, he knows if you've been bad or good ...

Like I said earlier, the big laughs come at the final deadline. Here is where ingenuity and insanity run amuck. The problem is: what do you do with 12 empty pages in the book and nothing to put on them?

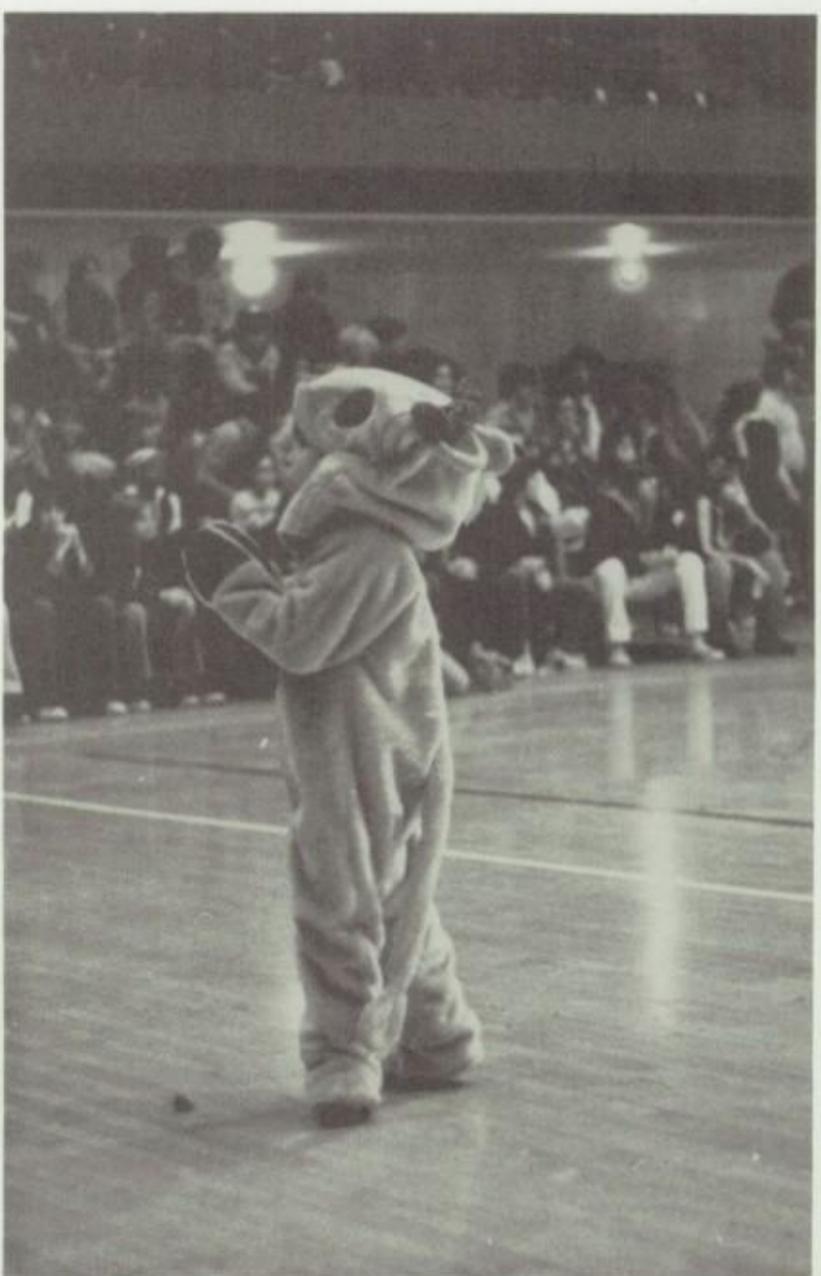

You panic! You grab people in the hall and ask if they would like to put something in the yearbook. You have a staff meeting, make sure that everyone has taken their cold medicine, leave the rubber cement can open for a while, and even pray, for an inspiration. With these procedures in combination with a full moon, anything can happen.

One final comment: If you don't like the book after reading it thoroughly, follow these simple instructions:

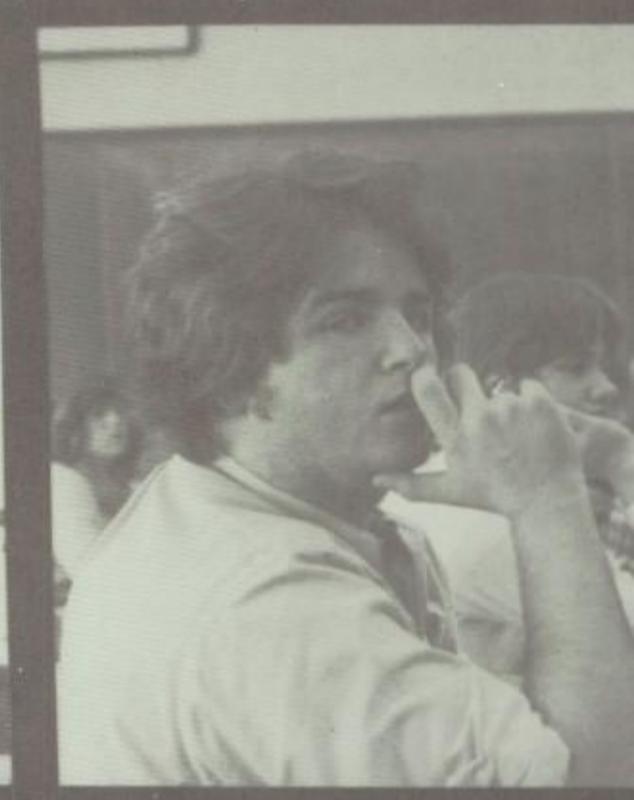

1. Fold the book in half.
2. Set book on chair.
3. Place chair in front of bookcase.
4. Climb to top of bookcase.
5. Yell "Geronimo".
6. . . .

Senior Class Play

The Senior Class sponsored the highly successful musical "Li'l Abner" on November 17th and 18th. By the time the cast and crew were assembled, there were well over 90 people involved with various facets of the show's production. After 8 weeks of rehearsing, set building, prop collecting, stage lighting, publicizing, and work on the many other jobs that go into producing a play, showtime came for "Li'l Abner". The enthusiasm and hard work of cast and crew combined to make the show enjoyable for all who attended.

Christmas Dance

Making merry under the mistletoe?

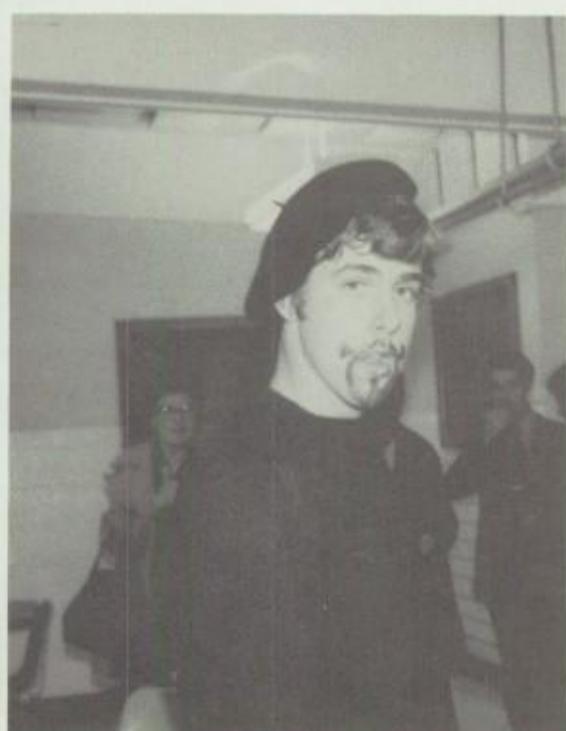

The theme of this year's highly successful Christmas Dance, presented by the class of 1980, was "Evergreen". Music was provided by "Slipstream," with the theme song being sung by Shelly Orr. Special thanks go to John L. Jones for providing the sleigh, and to Pat Deloney and his wife for their hard work in making the dance a success.

Spirit Week

Herman Senor—the man with the buttons

"O Lord, we beseech Thee ..."

"Take your home on the range. I want Manhattan."

Spirit Week was an innovative project to promote school spirit during the basketball and wrestling City Tournaments. All students were able to participate through the activities.

The week started off with hat day. Hats of all kinds were worn, from cowboy hats and sombreros to top hats and derbies. Tuesday was girl day. At the beginning of the day each girl was given three buttons and each boy was given the task of getting the girl to talk. If a girl spoke to a boy, he collected one of her buttons. The most successful boy of the day was Herman Senor, having close to 150 buttons.

On Wednesday, school was cancelled in the interest of school spirit.

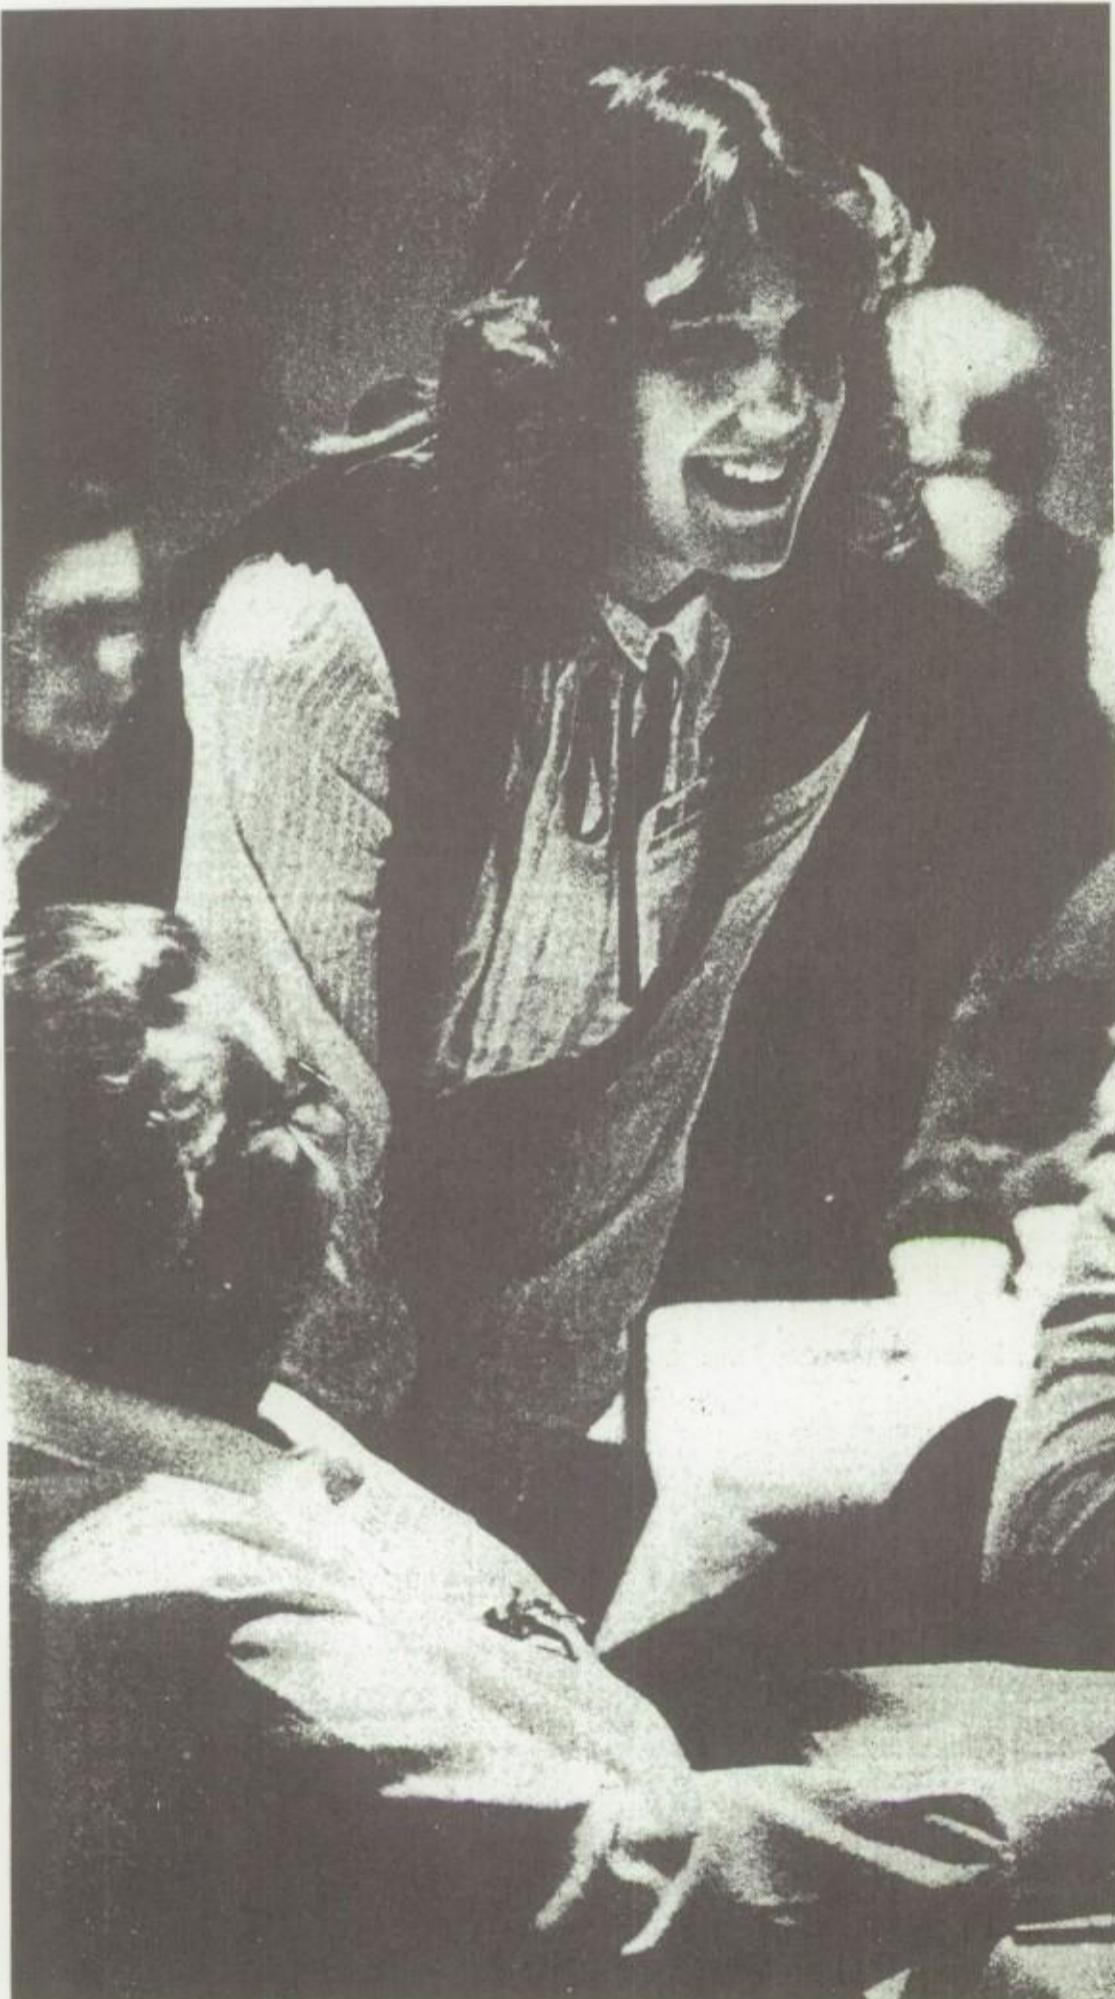

Thursday was grub day and people did their best to look their worst. Tim Hajek was awarded "Worst Grub" with John Haworth receiving an honorable mention. On the lunch shifts that day, the Pom Pon squad auctioned their services for lunch to the highest bidder.

Friday wound up the week with dress-up day.. Also the winning "Spirit Chain" class was announced. During the week, links were sold for 5¢ apiece and at the end of the week, the class with the longest chain won the prize. The Seniors won the contest and almost $100. first place prize. The rest of the money was given by Student Council to the P.E. Department.

Being the first project of its kind, Spirit Week was a large success.

Senior Citizens Dinner

take two

A Valentine dinner for special folk

by Julie Cellini

At first glance it seemed an odd mix of people.

Fresh, young faces, a few sporting adolescent blemishes, mingled with wrinkled, old noses. But nearly all of them were wearing smiles.

It was that kind of evening.

A group of 35 Springfield High School students put in two months of work to bring off Friday night's Valentine party for 300 senior citizens.

It was a toss up as to who had more fun.

The students, most of them members of the Student Council scraped together $550 in donations to pay for the dinner, which they helped cook under supervision of staff members at the Seniorama senior citizens center, 781 W. Mason St.

Elderly people had only to call the school to make reservations. More than 150 of them had no transportation. So the students borrowed vans and buses, mapped out routes and picked them up. Many arrived giggling about riding big yellow school buses. Most had to be helped across the icy driveway of the center.

"I haven't been any place but the doctor since October," said an elderly woman in boots, mittens and a ski jacket. "I promised myself I was coming tonight no matter what the weather did." Her only concern was that her best friend got there too. Dan Masiakski, a sophomore with a shy grin, assured her the friend was probably assigned to a different van. "She just has to come," the lady explained. "This is her birthday."

Clara Pearson, 80, a retired school teacher, had to be escorted very slowly from the side door of her house because the front door was frozen shut. "You young people are mighty brave to come get us in this weather," she told Masiakski. "I haven't been out of the house since New Year, so this is really a treat."

Mr. and Mrs. William Stone came by van, too. In their late 80s, the Stones usually drive their own car to the center, where they frequently have lunch and participate in programs. But the ice and snow have kept them home-bound lately. They were grateful for the ride.

Meanwhile, back at the center, a flushed, nervous Beth Woodruff was arranging chairs and fretting about last-minute details. The chairman of the event, Beth was angry and disillusioned because a number of candidates for city office had phoned and insisted on being part of the program. To her, this was cashing in on something she felt was personal and special. "I'm just going to tell them to leave if they do come," she sputtered.

She looked as if she meant it.

Cups of V-8 juice and smiling teen-agers awaited the senior citizens as they entered the dining room decorated with hearts and cupids, courtesy of the school's art department.

Preston Hott, acting principal at Springfield High School, looked as if he might burst with pride at what his students were doing. He kept circling the room, nodding and waving to oldsters, like a proud papa whose children had really done themselves.

Even Beth Woodruff lost her earlier misgivings. She had traded in her blue jeans and work shirt for high heels and a velvet skirt and top. The transformation was dazzling.

The room filled up quickly. Jim Markwell, 82, sat with Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Madison, ages 75 and 74 respectively. "I couldn't get a date," Markwell quipped. "You see any young widows around here?"

Like most of the diners, Madison seemed to enjoy the opportunity to socialize. He spoke of his years as a coal miner and about the mixed chorus he now directs. Mrs. Madison told him to cut it out when he began bragging about their 55th wedding anniversary coming up next December.

Not to be outdone, Markwell, a widower, interrupted. "You may have read about all I did in World War I." The pretty blonde who was filling his water glass nearly spilled her pitcher. Mrs. Madison rolled her eyes toward heaven.

"Did you cook all this food?" a lady asked John Kwedar as he served her a paper plate of roast beef, jello, peas and potatoes. "I had some help," he replied as he reached for an extra roll for her. As the school's jazz ensemble swung into "Satin Doll," Mrs. Lester Robson looked up from her plate and asked, "How come newspapers don't write about good kids like these?"

"I feel like Santa Claus," Mark Rinker announced as he drew winning numbers from a box for door prizes. Since the numbers were typed on the senior citizens' name tags, it took most of them a while to read the small print. When things finally got rolling, the seniors were excited about the prizes—mostly practical things like sacks of apples, sewing kits and dinners at local restaurants.

"Draw number 81," a lady shouted from the back of the room. Mark looked as if he hoped he would.

Easy banter seemed natural between the teens and the old people. "It's nice to be with these people," Beth said. "They appreciate what we've done. They really like to talk to us and to each other."

And talk they did. Some of them continuously. Right through the entertainment.

But the background noise only made the young performers try harder. Ventriloquist Van Wirth scarcely took a breath between one-liners. Though his jokes weren't new, his timing was perfect. "Another Edgar Bergen," the silver-haired lady enthused.

Seven and the Senators, 18 attractive, energetic singers, drew polite applause with their medley of hits from the 1960s. But their version of "Ma, He's Makin' Eyes at Me" brought down the house. Curiously, the young men's moderate haircuts drew as many favorable comments as the group's singing. "They look so clean," an old man with a flat-top observed.

As the vans and buses pulled up to return the senior citizens to their homes, one lady headed for me. "I sure had a good time," she said. Pointing to my notebook, she pleaded, "Say something real nice about these kids."

The smiles of young and old, left and above, were the order of the evening. Photos by Bud Roberts

CAPITOLINE

101 South Lewis, Springfield, Illinois 62704. a.c. 217,523-2352, 525-3100

I would like to thank the following people for their help in making the 1979 Capitoline a reality:

JEFF DODD, Editor, for his countless hours of work, all of his original ideas, (even the ones we didn't use) and his insane humor.

THE STAFF, for their occasional work.

BOB DONNELLY, Herff Jones Yearbook Representative, for not getting over-wrought when discovering the pages weren't done.

"PATIENT" PAT HUBER, our customer service rep.

RAYMOND NORBUT, for the use of his building for the cover.

BOB BERTRAM, for the artwork on the division pages.

MY DAD, George Canham, for the generous use of his cameras.

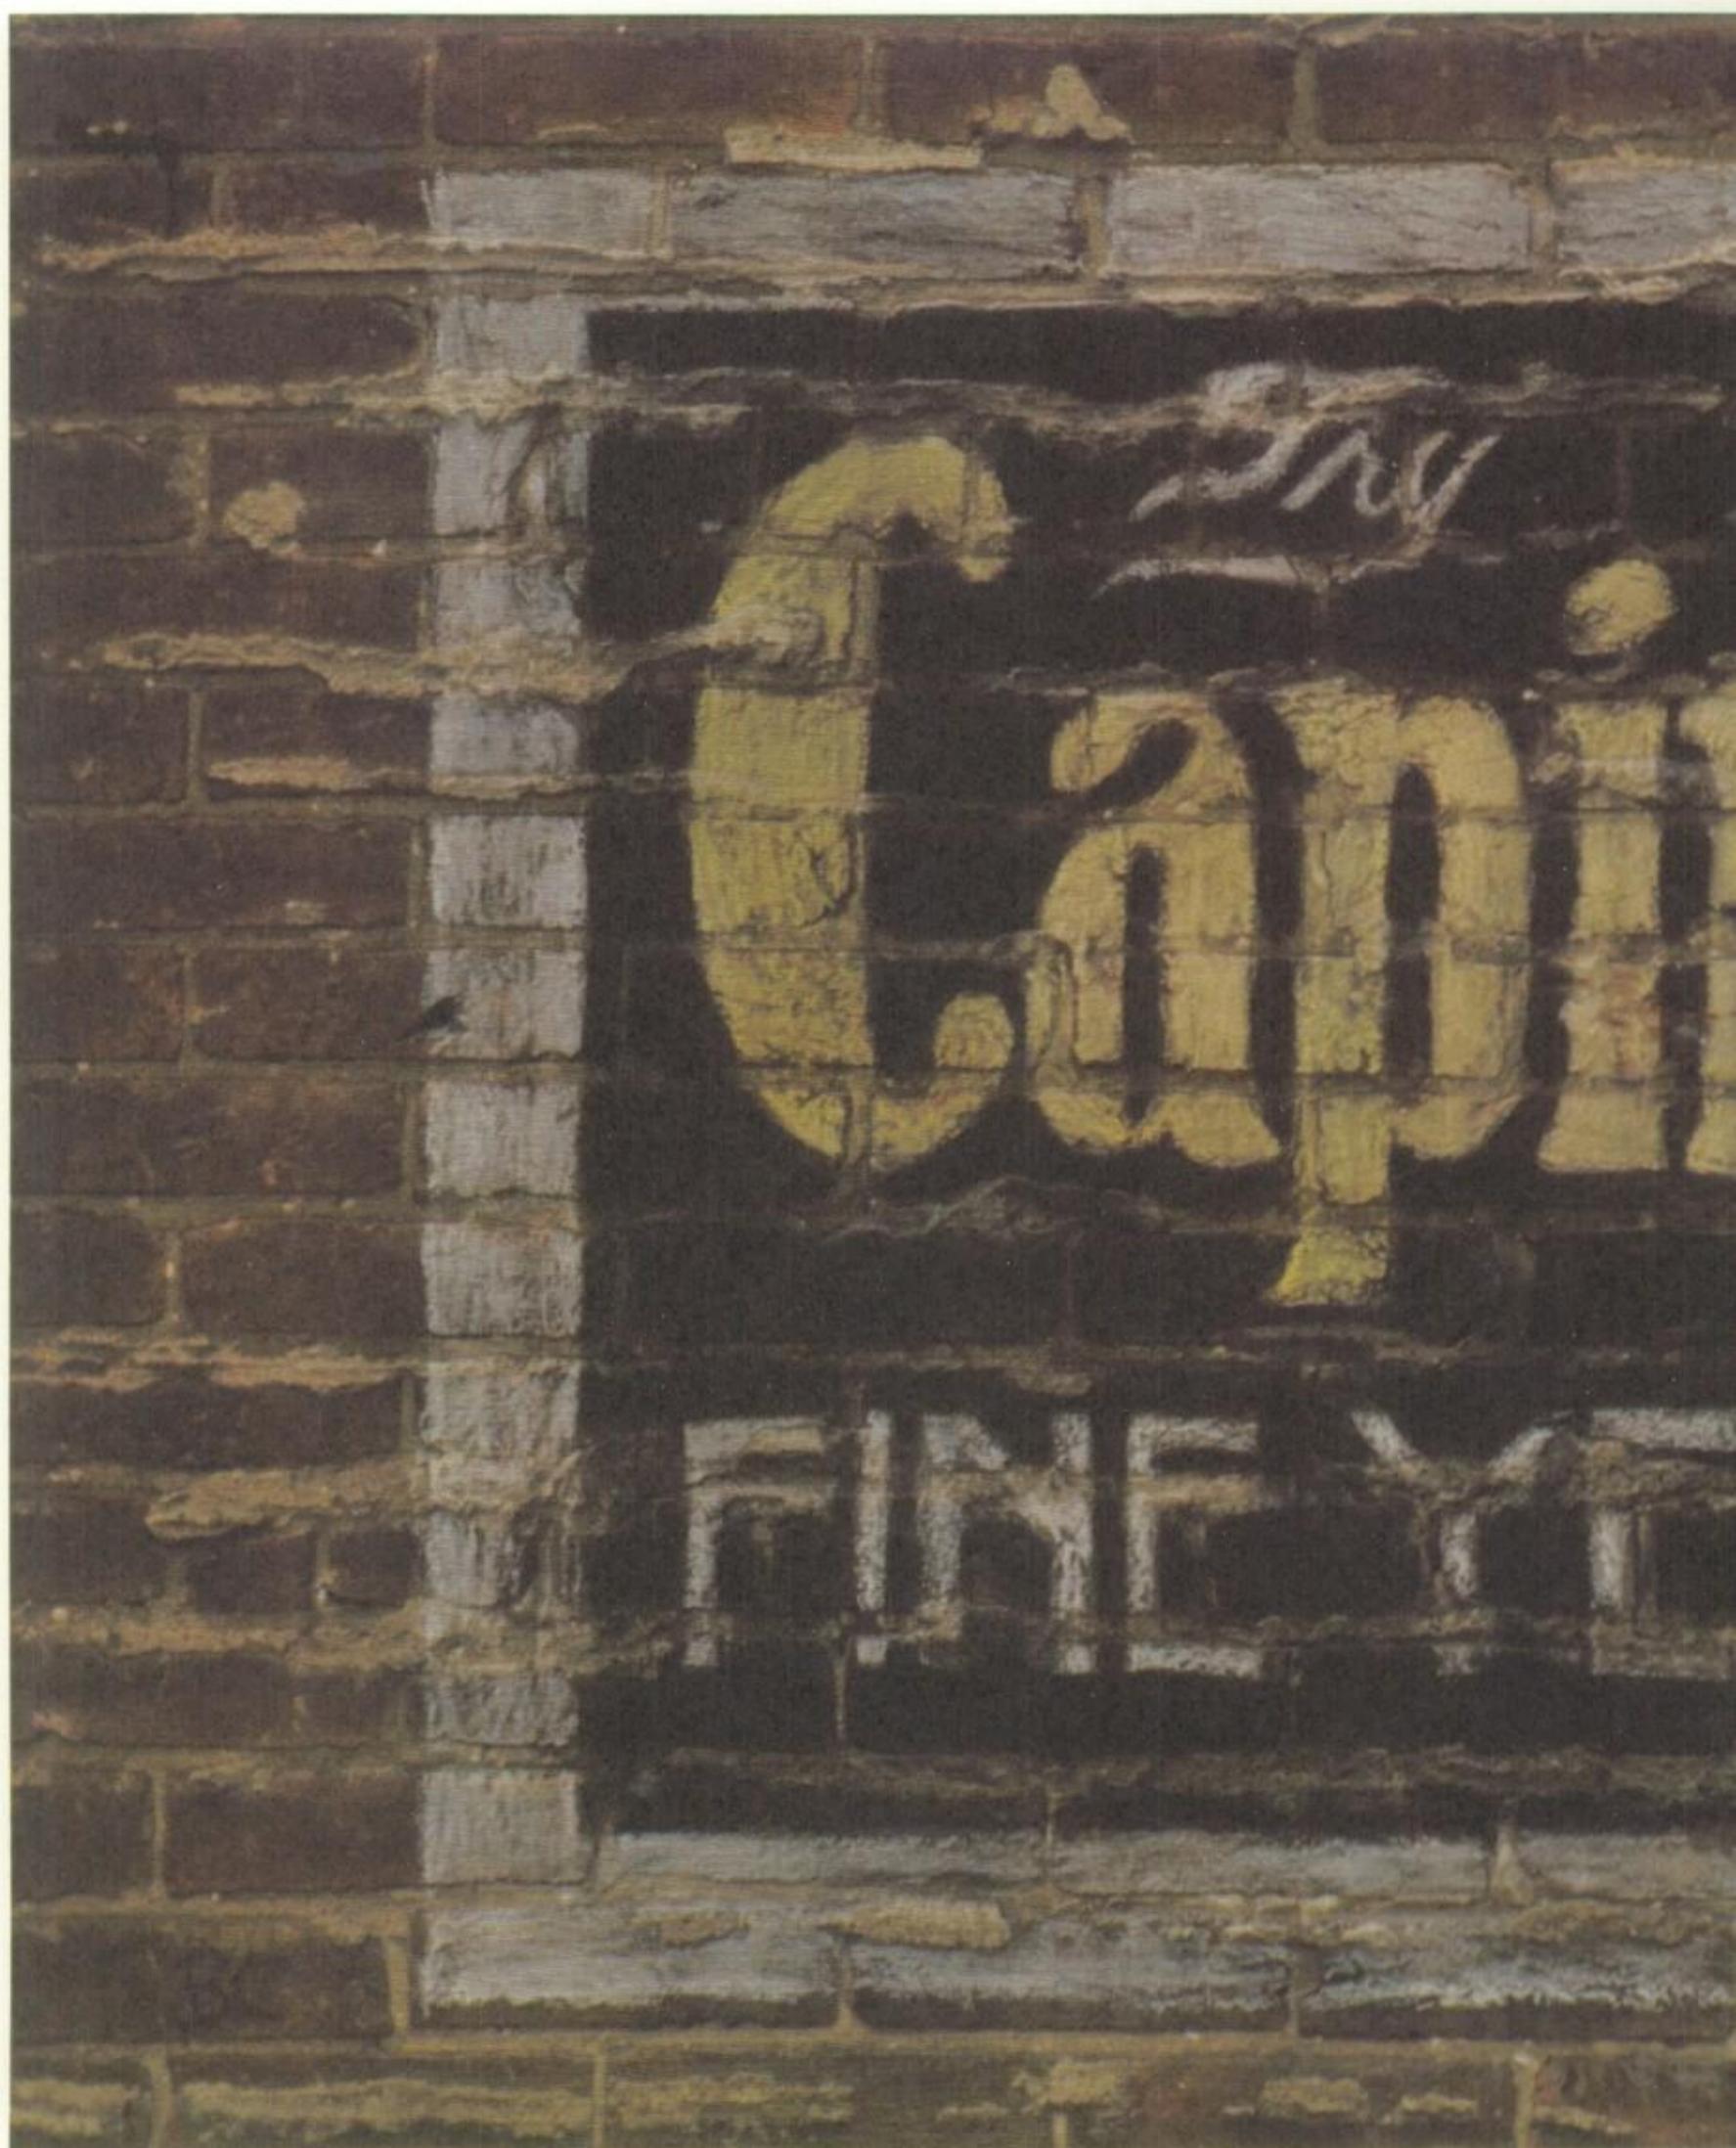

HERFF JONES YEARBOOKS, for their understanding when our pages weren't on time.

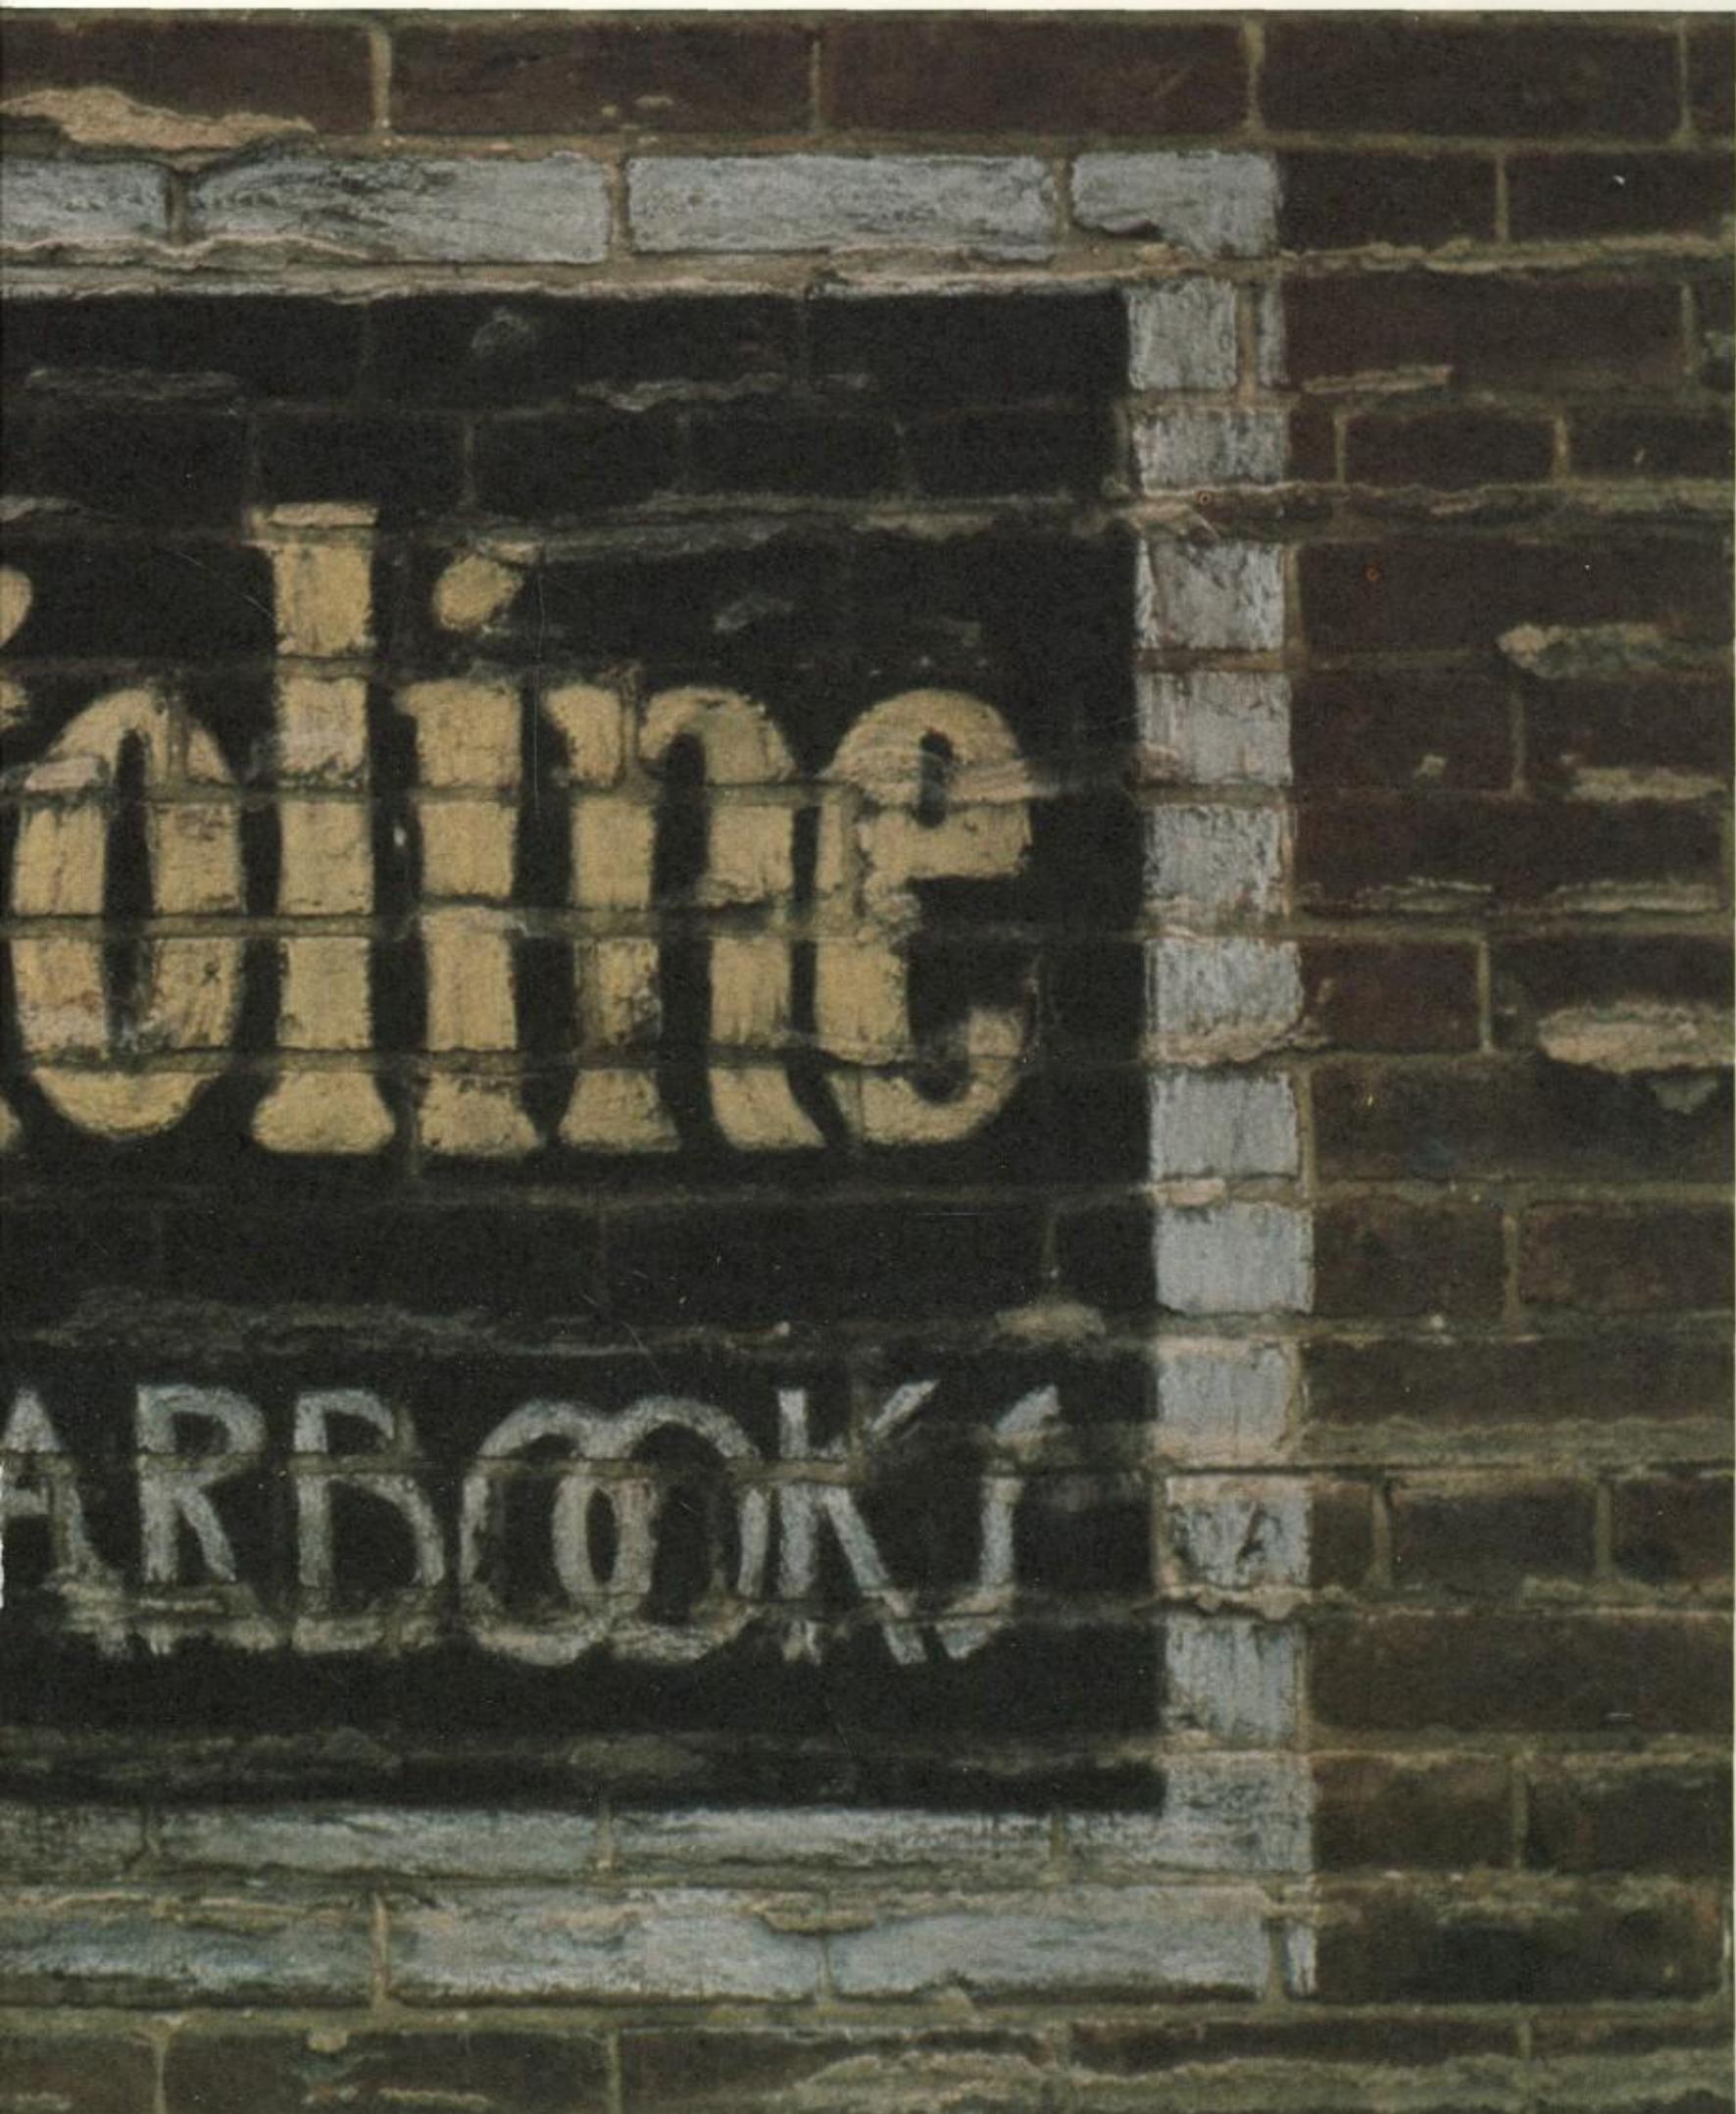

LESLIE BARREGARYE, for typing the Senior Index.

If I have overlooked anyone, I apologize. At times this year, the problems seemed to outweigh the progress. When it was finally finished we all breathed a sigh of relief and had a warm feeling of accomplishment. We hope you like it.

Bill Canham, Advisor
